Enclosure(s)

The enclosed documents represent the final release of information responsive to your Freedom of Information/Privacy Acts (FOIPA) request.

Enclosed are cross-references which are identifiable with the subject of your request. Cross-references are defined as mentions of the subject of your request in files to other individuals, organizations, events, or activities. In processing the cross-references, the pages considered for possible release included only those pages which mention the subject of your request and any additional pages showing the context in which the subject of your request was mentioned. The cross-reference pages were processed pursuant to the provisions of the FOIA and are being released to you in redacted form.

Records which may have been responsive to your request were destroyed. Since this material could not be reviewed, it is not known if it was responsive to your request. Record retention and disposal is carried out under supervision of the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA), Title 44, United States Code, Section 3301 as implemented by Title 36, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 1228; Title 44, United States Code, Section 3310 as implemented by Title 36, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 1229.10.

For your information, a search of the indices to our Central Records System reflected there were additional records potentially responsive to your Freedom of Information/Privacy Acts (FOIPA) request. We have attempted to obtain this material so it could be reviewed to determine whether it was responsive to your request. We were advised that the potentially responsive records were not in their expected location and could not be located after a reasonable search. Following a reasonable waiting period, another attempt was made to obtain this material. This search for the missing records also met with unsuccessful results.

This material is being provided to you at no charge.

FBI FOIPA Addendum

As referenced in our letter responding to your Freedom of Information/Privacy Acts (FOIPA) request, the FBI FOIPA Addendum provides information applicable to your request. Part 1 of the Addendum includes standard responses that apply to all requests. Part 2 includes standard responses that apply to requests for records about individuals to the extent your request seeks the listed information. Part 3 includes general information about FBI records, searches, and programs.

Part 1: The standard responses below apply to all requests:

- (i) 5 U.S.C. § 552(c). Congress excluded three categories of law enforcement and national security records from the requirements of the FOIPA [5 U.S.C. § 552(c)]. FBI responses are limited to those records subject to the requirements of the FOIPA. Additional information about the FBI and the FOIPA can be found on the www.fbi.gov/foia website.
- (ii) Intelligence Records. To the extent your request seeks records of intelligence sources, methods, or activities, the FBI can neither confirm nor deny the existence of records pursuant to FOIA exemptions (b)(1), (b)(3), and as applicable to requests for records about individuals, PA exemption (j)(2) [5 U.S.C. §§ 552/552a (b)(1), (b)(3), and (j)(2)]. The mere acknowledgment of the existence or nonexistence of such records is itself a classified fact protected by FOIA exemption (b)(1) and/or would reveal intelligence sources, methods, or activities protected by exemption (b)(3) [50 USC § 3024(i)(1)]. This is a standard response and should not be read to indicate that any such records do or do not exist.

Part 2: The standard responses below apply to all requests for records on individuals:

- (i) Requests for Records about any Individual—Watch Lists. The FBI can neither confirm nor deny the existence of any individual's name on a watch list pursuant to FOIA exemption (b)(7)(E) and PA exemption (j)(2) [5 U.S.C. §§ 552/552a (b)(7)(E), (j)(2)]. This is a standard response and should not be read to indicate that watch list records do or do not exist.
- (ii) Requests for Records about any Individual—Witness Security Program Records. The FBI can neither confirm nor deny the existence of records which could identify any participant in the Witness Security Program pursuant to FOIA exemption (b)(3) and PA exemption (j)(2) [5 U.S.C. §§ 552/552a (b)(3), 18 U.S.C. 3521, and (j)(2)]. This is a standard response and should not be read to indicate that such records do or do not exist.
- (iii) Requests for Records for Incarcerated Individuals. The FBI can neither confirm nor deny the existence of records which could reasonably be expected to endanger the life or physical safety of any incarcerated individual pursuant to FOIA exemptions (b)(7)(E), (b)(7)(F), and PA exemption (j)(2) [5 U.S.C. §§ 552/552a (b)(7)(E), (b)(7)(F), and (j)(2)]. This is a standard response and should not be read to indicate that such records do or do not exist.

Part 3: General Information:

- (i) Record Searches. The Record/Information Dissemination Section (RIDS) searches for reasonably described records by searching systems or locations where responsive records would reasonably be found. A standard search normally consists of a search for main files in the Central Records System (CRS), an extensive system of records consisting of applicant, investigative, intelligence, personnel, administrative, and general files compiled by the FBI per its law enforcement, intelligence, and administrative functions. The CRS spans the entire FBI organization, comprising records of FBI Headquarters, FBI Field Offices, and FBI Legal Attaché Offices (Legats) worldwide; Electronic Surveillance (ELSUR) records are included in the CRS. Unless specifically requested, a standard search does not include references, administrative records of previous FOIPA requests, or civil litigation files. For additional information about our record searches, visit www.fbi.gov/services/information-management/foipa/requesting-fbi-records.
- (ii) FBI Records. Founded in 1908, the FBI carries out a dual law enforcement and national security mission. As part of this dual mission, the FBI creates and maintains records on various subjects; however, the FBI does not maintain records on every person, subject, or entity.
- (iii) Requests for Criminal History Records or Rap Sheets. The Criminal Justice Information Services (CJIS) Division provides Identity History Summary Checks – often referred to as a criminal history record or rap sheet. These criminal history records are not the same as material in an investigative “FBI file.” An Identity History Summary Check is a listing of information taken from fingerprint cards and documents submitted to the FBI in connection with arrests, federal employment, naturalization, or military service. For a fee, individuals can request a copy of their Identity History Summary Check. Forms and directions can be accessed at www.fbi.gov/about-us/cjis/identity-history-summary-checks. Additionally, requests can be submitted electronically at www.edo.cjis.gov. For additional information, please contact CJIS directly at (304) 625-5590.
- (iv) National Name Check Program (NNCP). The mission of NNCP is to analyze and report information in response to name check requests received from federal agencies, for the purpose of protecting the United States from foreign and domestic threats to national security. Please be advised that this is a service provided to other federal agencies. Private Citizens cannot request a name check.

PIERCE discusses the Jewish media and their inability to report the rape and murder of four young men and women in Wichita, Kansas, by two Blacks. PIERCE also discusses two new movies, Save the Last Dance and O. According to Pierce, Save the Last Dance teaches our white daughters that it is cool to sleep with Black men. The movie O has a scene where a Black man rapes a white woman, and PIERCE believes the movies release was delayed because of the political problems that it would cause AL GORE.

White power puts message to music

Compact discs seen as way to reach into mainstream

By KIM MURPHY
Los Angeles Times

DETROIT — The meeting point is a gas station 20 miles north of Detroit. As carloads of people from across the Midwest cruise in, a young man in a blue flannel shirt quietly signals them to follow him.

They drive past a line of police cars, through suburbs dotted with strip malls and fast food restaurants. Finally, they reach working-class Shelby Township and turn left down a country road, where a Disabled American Veterans assembly hall advertises free admission to a flea market.

Car after car pulls in, and a parade of young men — many with the trademark shaved heads, Doc Martens boots and swastika tattoos of neo-Nazi skinheads — file into the hall. The door closes, and the trouble starts.

Thundering guitars strike up an infernal rhythm. A call — it might be a human shriek or the growl of a bear — rises with the music: Victory or Valhalla . . . We will never surrender. And then the crowd strikes up a chant that can be heard on the street: "Sieg Heil! Sieg Heil! Sieg Heil!"

OF THE many underground music scenes in America, few are so forbidden that patrons arrive not knowing where the concert is. Then again, few rock 'n' roll bands sing anthems like "If you ain't white, you'll be dead."

White power music is virtually the only kind that no radio station will play, no club will book and few record stores will stock. In an industry that seeks profits in outrageousness, it is the music that goes too far.

Even the old guard of the white supremacy movement viewed the violent skinhead culture with dismay. But now they have begun to embrace white power music, realizing that a single compact disc can be infinitely more powerful as a recruiting tool than a parking lot full of fliers.

National Alliance leader William Pierce — whom human-rights groups have identified as the most powerful white supremacist in America — recently purchased Resistance Records and its accompanying magazine, setting up a warehouse and distribution center on his 350-acre compound in West Virginia.

Resistance expects to generate at least $750,000 in compact-disc sales this year. That money, Pierce says, can be funneled into the National Alliance's expanding political network and into development of new music genres that will subtly carry its message.

"While it may appear to the naked eye that this stuff isn't very prevalent, it has worked itself into a number of different youth subcultures," said Devin Burghart of the Chicago-based Center for New Community, which along with the Northwest Coalition for Human Dignity recently produced a report on the growing impact of white power music.

"They're trying to target music stores, get air play," Burghart said. "They're trying to move bands more toward the mainstream. I think right now we're on the cusp of seeing a dramatic increase" in white power music's outreach.

While most record stores refuse to stock white power bands, racist labels have made inroads in at least two dozen retail outlets across the country. Anyone with access to the Internet can download and listen to songs like "Racially Debased" and "Bagels and Blood." And at the mainstream Milwaukee Music Festival last year, everyone entering the gate was handed a copy of Resistance magazine — which since Pierce took over has become the Rolling Stone of the racist music scene.

ONE OF the keys to the growing number of white power labels, industry insiders say, is that technology has made it easy — and potentially profitable — for almost anyone to operate a record company. All it takes is marginal studio equipment and a compact-disc burner connected to a personal computer. And if nobody will stock the records, they can be sold — at a better profit margin — at concerts and on the Internet.

"A CD costs $2 to produce. You sell it for $14.88. Good profit," said one industry observer who asked not to be identified. "But as far as Dr. Pierce's belief that this is going to be a means of reaching young people who are going to be part of his revolutionary vanguard? He's absolutely delusional. . . . I think the excitement, the alcohol, the girls, the loud music, all that has much more appeal than the message does."

"It will never have mass appeal," echoed Michael Moynihan, whose Portland-based band, Blood Axis, and small publishing company have come under attack by watchdog groups for their use of fascist symbolism and ideology.

"The No. 1 reason is that the musical quality is usually lacking," Moynihan said. "I don't think most people who listen to music as an art form are going to get excited about being yelled at with slogans."

But the managers of Resistance Records and Resistance magazine, which prints 12,000 copies quarterly, beg to differ.

"The key . . . is to make our views more fashionable than those that the system peddles," Resistance magazine said in an editorial.

"We are the ubiquitous 'rebels with a cause,' the champions of youthful aggression, the masters of controversy and excitement . . . and the perennial 'bad boys' of myth and legend."

Pierce points to a chart that, according to figures provided by outside watchdog groups, shows National Alliance membership up 49.7 percent last year to 1,500 people after nearly a decade of flat numbers.

"The whole climate for our revolution has shifted toward more favorable conditions," Pierce asserted, with people losing jobs to minorities, fearful the future will render whites a minority in America.

UNTIL HIS acquisition of Resistance Records, Pierce mostly used the Internet and radio to spread his message.

His weekly radio broadcasts, "American Dissident Voices," reach an international audience of more than 100,000 and allow him to pontificate on the U.S. political scene from what he calls a "patriotic" perspective.

In recent weeks, he has taken on the defense of Atlanta Braves pitcher John Rocker ("The people who pretend to be shocked by . . . Rocker's expression of distaste for the denizens of Times Square and the New York subways are the same people who will never give an honest explanation of why they have fled the cities for the suburbs"); former Austrian Freedom Party leader Joerg Haider ("Democracy works just the way the Jews want it to work — except when someone who isn't a member of the club slips through a crack and gets elected"); and white victims of black violence.

The overall reach of Pierce's umbrella is small — 1,500 dues-paying members are hardly going to launch a race war — but some of his toughest critics say Pierce is shrewd when it comes to laying the groundwork.

"He is incredibly bright and ... has long-standing and deep roots in the hate world," Brian Levin, head of the San Bernardino, Calif.-based Center on Hate and Extremism.

"Anywhere he can spread the message, whether it be over a radio show, or with these novels, or the Internet, or hate rock, he is almost like a one-man media conglomerate of the hate world."

It's not easy to run a white power record label. Forget about the trouble of finding a place to play. What about simply finding a printer to put out a compact-disc cover depicting swastikas and piles of Jewish corpses?

"To begin with, the music is politically incorrect, so you're going to run into problems," said Eric Davidson, 39, the operator of Minnesota-based Panzerfaust Records. "Freedom of speech only applies to people who aren't hurting anybody else's feelings."

BUT IN some ways, the forbidden nature of the music helps sell it, said Erich Gliebe, an ex-boxer ("the Aryan Barbarian") who has taken over management of Resistance Records and Resistance magazine. He also heads up the National Alliance's biggest chapter, in Cleveland.

Gliebe said Resistance is ready to make a major move into black metal music — an eerie, Satanic-tinged genre of heavy metal that was linked to a wave of church arsons and murder in Europe through the 1990s. A few of the leading black metal bands now have openly nationalist and racist themes.

Vincent Breeding, a guitarist, concert promoter and former marketing director for Resistance Records, said he has hired mainstream musicians, most working under pseudonyms, to develop a new generation of white power music — in genres ranging from rock to folk to country — with a more sophisticated message.

"We are in a position where we own the only record companies that promote an entire genre of music," Breeding said. "It's getting ready to explode, and when it does, we'll be the cultural disseminators of this, and not our enemies."

"We're on the cusp of seeing a dramatic increase" in white power music's outreach.

AOT-DT-WEAPONS VIOLATIONS

Synopsis: To document receipt of police report from Gloucester County Sheriff's Office.

Details: On 05/08/2002, Special Agent [REDACTED] received an Offense/Incident Report, Complaint number 0200846 written by Deputy [REDACTED] Gloucester County Sheriff's Office, regarding [REDACTED]. On 04/28/2002, [REDACTED] was stopped and questioned about orange stickers which had been affixed to the Gloucester High School doors. The following was written on the stickers: "Music for white kids!" "Resistance records P.O. Box 67 Hillsboro, WV 24946" "www.resistance.com". Because [REDACTED] was observed on two separate occasions in the same vicinity as the school, he was later stopped and questioned regarding this matter.

After being stopped, Deputy [REDACTED] observed orange stickers which stated, "earth's most endangered species: the white race help preserve it", on the floorboard of [REDACTED] vehicle. Additional stickers with NATIONAL ALLIANCE on them were found in the back seat of the vehicle. When questioned about these events, [REDACTED] admitted nothing, but stated that another individual had been traveling with him that evening. [REDACTED] stated he only knew this individual as [REDACTED]. Attached to this E.C. is the entire report provided by the Gloucester County Sheriff's Office.

Approving DSN (I) 0051

ON 04-28-02 I WAS PATROLING THE AREA OF SHORT LANE. I WAS TRAVELING EAST BOUND TOWARDS THE HIGH SCHOOL. I OBSERVED A VEHICLE PUT ON ITS BRAKES AND SLOW DOWN IN FRONT OF THE HIGH SCHOOL. AT THIS TIME I WAS APPROX. 3/4 MILE FROM THE VEHICLE. I ATTEMPTED TO CATCH UP TO THE VEHICLE AND IT TURNED INTO THE MORMON CHURCH AND TURNED AROUND. I THEN WENT TO THE END OF SHORT LANE AND TURNED AROUND. I THEN OBSERVED THE VEHICLE SLOW DOWN AGAIN IN FRONT OF THE HIGH SCHOOL. IT WENT PAST THE SCHOOL TO THE STOP LIGHT AT SHORT LANE AND RT 17.

I THEN MET WITH DEPUTY [REDACTED] IN THE STUDENT PARKING LOT. AS WE PULLED SIDE BY SIDE, I NOTICED A PERSON WALKING NEXT TO THE SCHOOL. THE PERSON WAS A MALE, WEARING JEANS AND BLACK HOODED SHIRT. AS THIS PERSON SAW US, I SAW HIM. HE THEN ATTEMPTED STAND IN THE SHADOWS, NEXT TO THE BUILDING. I THEN ATTEMPTED TO CATCH UP TO THE UNKNOWN SUSPECT AND HE RAN BEHIND THE SCHOOL, INTO THE WOODED AREA. I WAS APPROXIMATELY 150 TO 200 YARDS FROM THE SUSPECT AND COULD NOT CATCH UP TO HIM. I THEN NOTICED ORANGE STICKERS ON THE DOORS TO THE SCHOOL. THE STICKERS HAD "MUSIC FOR WHITE KIDS!" "RESISTANCE RECORDS P.O. BOX 67 HILLSBORO, WV 24946" "WWW.RESISTANCE.COM". I LOCATED 14 OF THESE STICKERS ON THE SCHOOL. THEY WERE ON THE DOORS ON THE FRONT OF THE SCHOOL (CLOSEST TO THE WOOD LINE) AROUND TO THE DOORS ON THE BUS LOOP SIDE OF THE SCHOOL.

Nazism's new global threat

The Internet helps build a sophisticated web of violent, well-funded racists

BY DAVID E. KAPLAN
AND LUCIAN KIM

When Hendrik Möbus stepped off a British jet and onto American soil last December, the German neo-Nazi was looking for more than kindred spirits. A convicted murderer, Möbus needed refuge. After serving five years in a German jail for helping strangle a fellow teenager, he had allegedly violated parole by disparaging his victim, raising his arm in a Nazi salute, and organizing gatherings of the far right.

Möbus trekked across the United States for seven months, staying with suspected white supremacists in Washington State, Ohio, and Virginia. He finally landed on a remote mountaintop in rural West Virginia, at the 300-acre compound of the National Alliance, a white supremacist group that the Anti-Defamation League calls the largest and most dangerous in the nation. There Möbus stayed for 10 more weeks, until U.S. marshals caught up with him last month. He now faces deportation to Germany.

That the 24-year-old Möbus had contacts across America is a troubling sign of closer ties between U.S. neo-Nazis and their counterparts abroad. Until the 1980s, America's postwar white supremacists were a ragtag collection of local Ku Klux Klansmen and neo-Nazis—with little exposure to people or events overseas. But in this age of globalization, white supremacists have gone international, too. Fueled by the Internet and cheap jet travel, neo-Nazi leaders are exchanging speakers and literature and forming chapters of their groups abroad. Some analysts see the outlines of a sophisticated, worldwide neo-Nazi movement, in which violent, racist groups share tactics and resources as never before. Says Mark Potok of the Southern Poverty Law Center, which monitors hate groups: "We're seeing better funding, more hiding places, and, ultimately, greater violence."

There is no shortage of people on the political fringe. German officials say some 54,000 individuals are tied to the extreme right in that country; tens of thousands more are active elsewhere in Europe. Between 100,000 and 200,000 Americans are thought to have similar ties.

Ironically, after winning the war against Nazism, it is the Americans who are helping revitalize it. For years, U.S. groups have been the major source of Nazi-inspired books, memorabilia, and propaganda; such materials are illegal in Germany but protected by the First Amendment here. Nebraska-based Gary Lauck, dubbed the "Farm Belt Führer," spent two decades shipping racist literature to Germany. His luck ran out when he visited Europe, and German officials slapped him with a four-year jail term. Lauck now stays closer to home—running a Web site with a catalog, in 14 languages, of Nazi books, newspapers, and CDs.

A haven for extremists. German neo-Nazi groups are also flocking to U.S.-based Internet providers. The German government's crackdown on the far right, following a spate of violent attacks on foreigners, has prompted extremist groups there to transfer scores of Web sites to the United States. German intelligence officials say 70 percent of the nearly 400 German neo-Nazi sites are now on American servers, and nearly a third of those would be illegal under German law. Last year, one U.S.-based Web page posted a $7,500 reward (in German) for the murder of a young left-wing activist, giving his home address, job, and phone number.

Web sites and E-mail are the electronic glue that pastes together the once disparate edges of a worldwide movement. Among the most active neo-Nazi groups is Hammerskin Nation, a federation of so-called skinheads whose members sport swastikas along with their shaved heads and steel-toed boots. Known for their violence, followers of Hammerskin Nation run chapters in Australia, New Zealand, and across Europe and North America. U.S. Hammerskin bands regularly perform in Germany, while British and German Hammerskins often visit America, officials say. The Ku Klux Klan has also ventured abroad, setting up chapters in Britain and Australia and giving talks in Germany. And the Illinois-based World Church of the Creator, whose follower Benjamin Smith went on a two-state shooting spree last year, claims chapters in Australia, Belgium, Canada, France, and Sweden.

If the American radical right has an unofficial ambassador, though, it is William Pierce, 67, leader of the National Alliance. It was at Pierce's rustic compound that Möbus was hiding. A former physics professor, Pierce wrote the notorious Turner Diaries, a crude novel depicting an American race war in which the U.S. government is overthrown and Jews and minorities are systematically slain. Among the novel's fans was Timothy McVeigh; his bombing of the Oklahoma City federal building closely resembles a scene from the book.

Under Pierce's leadership, the National Alliance has established chapters in 11 countries. Pierce's travels have brought him to the United Kingdom, and since 1996 he has made four visits to Germany, where officials say he now has a representative. His main contacts are with the 6,000-member National Democratic Party (known by its German initials, NPD), a group so dominated by neo-Nazis that government officials have proposed banning it. In a speech before the party's congress last year, Pierce spoke of a new era of collaboration among "nationalist" groups, echoing the NPD's own calls for expansion abroad. NPD officials, in turn, have attended meetings of Pierce's National Alliance in the United States. "Our destinies are linked," Pierce later proclaimed, sounding like Adolf Hitler in 1933. "If the Jews succeed in destroying the German nation, they will have an easier time destroying us."

Angry Aryans. Like others on the far right, the National Alliance has wholeheartedly embraced the Web, offering online materials in five European languages. The Turner Diaries, which once had to be smuggled into Germany, can now be read on its Web site in German as well as French. Last year, Pierce also moved into the music business with the purchase of Resistance Records, reputed to be the world's largest purveyor of neo-Nazi CDs, with titles like "Too White for You" by the Angry Aryans. Pierce's warehouses reportedly carry 250 titles and stockpile some 80,000 CDs. A major market is the European skinhead scene.

Despite its growing reach, however, the neo-Nazi movement remains widely fractured, both at home and abroad: Groups often hate each other nearly as much as they do non-Aryans. The danger, of course, is that even individuals, like McVeigh, can cause enormous damage. Moreover, the Internet is hastening the spread of a more consistent ideology. American white supremacists have been "Nazified" in recent years, analysts say. A generation ago, Ku Klux Klan members with memories of World War II would never have associated with Nazis; today, they attend rallies, sport swastikas, and offer sieg heils.

Such a common culture does not bode well. "All the ingredients are there," warns German political scientist Thomas Grumke, who studies the far right. "Somebody just has to mix them together." ●

Pocahontas library shows neo-Nazi collection

By Shaya Tayefe Mohajer
The Associated Press

MARLINTON — The McClintic Library has a number of collections that reflect the local community: the Railroad and Logging Collection, the Pocahontas Woods Furniture and Woodworking Collection, the Appalachian Collection.

But one collection reflects a darker side of the area's history: the Hate Ideologies Collection.

The collection, a subset of The Pearl

S. Buck E. Pluribus Unum Collection, was developed at a time when the National Alliance, a neo-Nazi group, was flourishing in Pocahontas County.

"Happily, it's dying down and we've really seen a drop in that kind of activity at large," said head librarian Vicky Terry.

The collection is not large, but books, pamphlets, videos and magazines line a few shelves near the young adults section.

Allen Johnson, director of Pocahontas County Free Libraries, said his four libraries aspire to bring multiculturalism to the community and expand the dialogue about race.

"We have very few African-Americans, Asians even less. You go to a major city and it is cosmopolitan, so we need to interject, for our children," Johnson said.

As of the 2000 Census, 8,983 of Pocahontas County's 9,131 residents were white.

Most of the materials in the collection promote tolerance and debunk racial myths like denial of the Holocaust. Johnson has gone to great lengths, and has often attracted ire, in his quest to increase tolerance. He once displayed a menorah instead of a Christmas tree, and the library has staged a number of unity rallies where participants marched through downtown Marlinton carrying banners calling for peace and equality.

Some racist works, like "The Turner

Diaries" by the late National Alliance leader William Pierce, are kept behind the counter because they were often stolen.

Locals and experts say neo-Nazi activity in the area has dropped off markedly since Pierce died July 23, 2002.

A telephone call to the National Alliance was not immediately returned Wednesday.

Before Pierce's death, the National Alliance had more than 1,400 dues-paying members, said Mark Potok, who tracks the movements of hate groups all over the country for the Southern Poverty Law Center, a civil rights group based in Montgomery, Ala.

Infighting led to schisms in the group, with many members leaving to join groups in Arkansas and Charlotte, N.C. Potok estimates that the National Alliance has dwindled to fewer than 150 members, with fewer than 100 in West Virginia.

"This was clearly the most important hate group in America, it was the most sophisticated and active politically, and also produced the most criminal violence," Potok said. "Today it's been completely overtaken by other groups, or people have left it entirely."

Potok added that National Alliance's music label, Resistance Records, is now operating at a financial deficit. It once earned more than $500,000 annually with sales of heavy metal-based music with racist lyrics.

Johnson also has noticed the decline.

"I have not seen anyone that I recognize as a neo-Nazi for a number of months here, but I used to see them all the time — and I mean daily, not just one person, but several," Johnson said.

The National Alliance's demise was largely the result of the poor leadership of Pierce's uncharismatic successor, Erich Griebel, Potok said. Scandal also divided the group after word got around that Griebel and other leaders allegedly spent their time — and a chunk of the National Alliance's income — at a strip club called Lady Godiva's, said Potok.

"They were, for 30 years, our No. 1 nemesis. Today we're down to half a dozen people on the mountain," Potok said of those who remain at Pierce's former compound.

"For me, personally, that's a victory."
